

Jean Oman, Travis Spaulding, Jiselle Oman, and Susanna Leftwich with students

Jean Oman: Upon arriving at an elementary school with 233 students, we found there was no adequate place for an assembly. Adjacent to the school was a Catholic church. The caretaker was there, and the head teacher asked him if the children could assemble there, to which he agreed. Over 200 children prayed to receive Jesus as their Savior in the Catholic church! While sharing at another elementary school, some students were distracted, but the ones directly in front of me were hanging on every word. After the prayer of invitation, one young boy exclaimed joyfully as tears streamed down his face, "I am on my way to Heaven! Thank you for coming to tell me about Jesus!"

Jon Borofsky: One day, I preached to a class of students that the teacher deemed "bad" students. During the class, one student was intensely paying attention to the message. He answered questions out loud and was the first to shoot his hand up, identifying himself as having accepted Christ. As I was leaving, he shouted, "Thank you for telling me about Jesus!"

Jon Borofsky with students

Corey Leduc with students

Corey Leduc: Seeing the light in children's eyes and the smiles on their faces after sharing the gospel creates such an indescribable feeling in my heart. This was the most significant thing that happened on the planet this summer, and God made me a part of it.

Susanna Leftwich: On our last day, I arrived at a school an hour before the flag ceremony. I noticed a girl standing in the back with her arms crossed. I tried everything to try and make her smile. After I shared the good news to her school, I went down to interact with the children. I saw her and immediately could see a change in her eyes! She had the biggest smile on her face, and she even reached out to shake my hand. I asked her where Jesus is now, and she said, "Puso" (heart)!

Joey Clark: While I was preaching to an elementary class, I made eye contact with a little girl who had tears in her eyes. I had to stop for just a second and fight back tears myself, thanking God the whole time for letting me share with these kids who were yearning to hear the Gospel.

John Ginn with students

Joey Clark with students

Jordann Gammons: On the last day, my team went to the ends of the earth to a school with 105 students. I was surprised there was a school with students out there; nonetheless, God had work to be done. As my teammate shared, Acts 1: 8 popped into my head. "But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be My witnesses both in Jerusalem, and all Judea, and Samaria, and even to the remotest part of the earth." God reminded me that it doesn't matter where I am - this gospel is too important to be locked up and never told.

Jordann Gammons with students